PRESS RELEASE

May 28th, 2019

ALTO Aviation announces a new website launch.

ALTO Aviation, a leading designer, manufacturer, and distributor of premium cabin audio and entertainment systems for Business Aviation, is proud to announce the launch of its newly redesigned website.

The new website has been designed as a user-friendly, responsive and intuitive platform; it features a clean, streamlined, minimalistic modern design, improved functionality, and password protected access to the company's product documentation and operating manuals. ALTO's newly redesigned website showcases the company's recently expanded line of products and services. All our products have redesigned datasheets, an user-friendly product catalog, and a responsive portfolio with the company's offering in In-Flight Entertainment, Cabin Management System, and direct replacement cabin controls.

"We are very excited about our company's new website launch, and the easy access to the company's information that provides to all our customers, industry partners, suppliers, prospect customers, and trade media. This new website showcases our expansion as a company and our deep commitment to continuing serving the Business Aviation industry." Don Hamilton, President of ALTO Aviation, said.

The new website goes live Tuesday, May 28th, 2019 and will be located at our same address www.altoaviation.com.
